

HiLife™

Cristini offers a full line of rope threading systems starting from the industry's most versatile rope and hardware such as: sheaves, pulleys and stretchers. Cristini has been diligently researching a completely new rope structure which encompasses the benefits of all families of yarns; this new family of rope is being called HiLife™, although the advantages of its use go far beyond life.

HiLife™ is a completely new rope structure which encompasses the benefits of all families of yarns, without the painful trade-offs necessary to convert from one rope family to another.

HiLife™ has a more robust round cross-section, even in hollow-core. Furthermore, the morphology of the rope components allows for better absorption/impregnation and chemical attachment of wear-resistance and friction-inducing coatings.
